

Supreme Sky Pilot Goals for 2026-2027

A Laugh, a Prayer, and a Helping Hand—That's the Cootie Way!

As we begin this Cootie year, I'm asking every Sky Pilot across the Military Order of the Cootie to focus on what matters most: lifting each other up, supporting those in need, and spreading the unique cheer that only a Cootie can bring.

1. Be There When It Matters

Reach out to members who are sick, grieving, or going through tough times. Whether it's a phone call, a card, or just sitting with someone who needs company—show them they're not alone.

2. Bring Laughter and Light

Start every gathering with a moment of humor or an uplifting word. Share a joke, a story, or a reflection that reminds us why we come together—not just to serve, but to enjoy the journey side by side.

3. Create a Circle of Support

Look for the quiet ones who might be struggling. Check in with them regularly. Let's make sure no Cootie falls through the cracks.

4. Share Resources and Encouragement

Distribute information on support services—counseling, hotlines, and community resources. If you find something helpful, pass it along. Sometimes, knowing where to turn can make all the difference.

5. Celebrate Strength and Service

Shine a spotlight on those who go above and beyond for others. Tell their stories at meetings or in newsletters. Recognition inspires everyone.

6. Keep the Faith—And the Fun

Remember, our work is important, but so is our spirit. Keep a sense of humor, lean on your faith or personal beliefs, and never underestimate the power of a well-timed laugh.

Let's make this year one to remember—not just for our service, but for the compassion and joy we bring to every Cootie and every veteran we meet.

Yours in Service and Smiles,
